

Artist Bio: Gayle LaVallee

Gayle spent the first 21 years of her life in Maine: Brownville Junction and Milo. After graduating from the University of Maine, she spent much of her life residing in New Hampshire and Texas. In 2000 she returned to her home state, and now resides in Sebec Village. Always, since her first Brownie, acquired when she was nine years old, she has lived with a camera in her hand.

Self-taught, she has earned a hobby/livelihood photographing weddings, families, pets and (mostly rural) landscapes. Her work has been shown and sold in Maine (Monhegan Island, Rockland, Port Clyde, Milo) and in New Hampshire (Concord and Penacook).

Mostly, her work is comprised of intimate views of the people, animals, birds and flowers of coastal and north-central Maine. Should you like to have prints or notecards of any of her work, please give her a call: 207-564-7072.
